

GEORGIA SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY
University System of Georgia
Lecturer—Search #56690
College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences
Department of Writing and Linguistics

The Department of Writing and Linguistics in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences invites nominations and applications for a non-tenure track Lecturer position. Georgia Southern University, a member institution of the University System of Georgia, is the largest and most comprehensive center of higher education in the southern half of Georgia. Georgia Southern University is classified by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as a Doctoral/Research institution. A residential university serving 18,000 students in Fall 2009, Georgia Southern is recognized for providing all of the benefits of a major university with the feeling of a much smaller college. Founded in 1906, the University offers more than 100 campus-based and online degree programs at the baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral levels through eight colleges. The nearly 700 acre park-like campus is located in Statesboro, a classic Main Street community near historic Savannah and Hilton Head Island.

Position Description. Reporting to the Chair of the Department of Writing and Linguistics, the successful candidate will teach courses in the department's Bachelor of Arts in Writing and Linguistics program as well as first-year writing. This faculty member will be engaged in either critical or creative scholarship in digital/visual rhetoric or multimedia/multigenre writing and will be interested in the development of online courses. This faculty member will help the department develop stronger partnerships with other departments and programs in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. The typical teaching load for non-tenure-track lecturer faculty is 12 to 15 credit hours per semester (four or five three-hour courses). Departmental service is expected and will vary according to the teaching load. Research and professional development are encouraged. Collegiality is essential. The position is a 9-month appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:

- Master's degree suited to one the Department's four concentrations (linguistics, creative writing, professional and technical writing, writing studies) by August 1, 2010
- Experience with digital/visual rhetoric or multimedia/multigenre writing
- Experience teaching with technology
- Evidence of excellence in teaching

Preferred Qualifications:

- Terminal degree (PhD or MFA) suited to one the Department's four concentrations (linguistics, creative writing, professional and technical writing, writing studies) by August 1, 2010
- Two to four years of college teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential
- Experience working with diverse student populations

Screening of applications begins October 1, 2009, and continues until the position is filled. The position starting date is August 1, 2010. A complete application consists of a letter addressing the qualifications cited above; a curriculum vitae; and the names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of at least five professional references. Other documentation may be requested. Georgia Southern University seeks to recruit individuals who are committed to working in diverse academic and professional communities. Applications and nominations should be sent to:
